The Curiosities of the English Language.

The English language, perhaps more than and other, is capable of queer and ingenious uses, misuses, transforma-tions and combinations. The student of the curiosities of literature is astonished at its wonderful susceptibility to odd pranks in the way of orthography, syntax, prosody, pronunciation, rhyme and translation. Some curious effects are sometimes produced by an ingenious arrangement of pronunciation. A device has often been used in political and other partisan songs called "echo verses," in which the sounds of the last words of a line are repeated after the manner of an echo, the whole being so contrived as to express some significant meaning. This, though a short specimen, is a good illustration ;

"What are they who pay three guineas To hear a tune of Paganini's?
(Echo) Pack o' ninnies!"

PLAY UPON WORDS.

Of course the whole innumerable host of puns bad and good which are floating about in books and newspapers, as well as in social circles, are all predicated upon similarities in pronunciation, A pun that has in it a sharp and witty meaning is a good thing; but the immense deal of trash is not spontaneous, has given this kind of literature a bad reputation, so that few good authors will use it. The similarity of sound have given rise to such senseless productions as the following, which may be queer, but are not witty :

"Mr. Popp, of Poppville, in Popp county, fancying himself to be very popular with his lady love, 'popped the mestion' to her under the poplar tree, when she referred him to her poppy, who, when asked for his consent, laboring under the influence of gingerpop, popped him out of the door to the tune of 'Pop goes the weasel.'"

Or this: "You have no business to have any business with other people's business; but mind your own business, and that is business enough."

The following is given as a statement of fact which may poss bly add something to its value :

"There is a young man in the army who was born July 4th, at 4 o'clock p. m., at No. 44 at a street in this city, 1814, a fourth child, has four names, enlisted in Company D, of the Fourth Battalion, Forty-fourth Regiment, fourth company, and on the 4th day of September was appointed Fourth Corporal, and is now going forth to defend his country."

Here is a traveler's report of a conversation with a backwoodsman:

'Whose house?" 'Mogs.' 'Of what built?' 'Logs.' 'Any neighbors?' 'Frogs.' 'What is the soil?' 'Bogs.' 'The climate?' 'Fogs.' 'Your diet?' 'Hogs.' 'How do you catch them?'

An original instance is given of answering two questions at one time :

'Here, Biddy, my darlint, what's the time o' night, and where's the pertaty pudding?

'It is eight, sir.'

Which may as well be followed by an account of a curious misunderstanding :

'I come for the saw, sir,' said an urchin.

'What saucer ?'

'Why, the saw, sir, that you borrowed.

'I borrowed no saucer.'

Sure you did, sir-borrowed our saw, sir.

'Be off, never saw your saucer.' But you did, sir-there's the saw, sir, now, sir.'

'Oh! you want the saw?'

Here is a Quaker toast that has a thought in it :

This is me and mine to thee and thine. I wish when thou and thine come to see me and mine, that we and mine will treat thee and thine as kindly as thee and thine have treated me and mine.'

compliment, which runs something afthis wise:

'I wish thee and thy folks loved me and my folks as well as me and my folks loved thee and thy folks. For sure, there never was folks since folks was folks. that ever loved folks half so well as me and my folks love thee and thy

WORDS WITHOUT RHYMES.

Poets have been often greatly puzzled to find rhymes for particular words. It is said that there is no word in the English language which genius proclaims that some particular word is without a rhyme, and challenges the world to disprove his assertion. Forthwith many people cudgel their brains, and sometimes do produce the desired word. Some years ago the Knickerbocker offered a brass quarter dollar to the person who could ind a rhyme to the word "window." The prize was earned by the following effort, which furnishes the rhyme and ias some fun in it as well:

A cruel man a beefle caught.

And to the wall bim pinned, oh!

Then said the beetle to the crowd. "Though I'm stuck up, I am not proud,"
And his soul went out of the window.

the best production elicited, styled "Lines to a Pretty Bar-maid:"

Sweet maid of the inn, Tis surely no sin
To to ast such a beautiful bar pet. Believe me, my dear, Your feet would appear At home on a nobleman's carpet.

A line ending with "harp it" also came near to the mark. A rhyme was found for Timbuctoo, as follows:

I went out hunting on the plains,
The plains of Timbuctoo;
I shot one buck for all my pains,
And he was a slim buck too.

And also for "garden:"

Though Afric's lion be not near here In showman's stoutly barr'd den, An "Irish Lion" you may see "At large in Winter Garden.

Hood, in his humorous poems, either originated or adopted the idea of di-viding words at the end of a line for the sake of rhyme. The following, which is floating about, is a specimen of that kind of composition:

A year old to-day is little Molly—
Romping, noisy, fat and jolly:
Too young to walk, and like a pollywog excited, she goes frolicking about the floor, and golly! what a laugh !

Leonine verses are those in which the terminations rhyme with the central words. An inscription in the Chapter House of York Cathredral is a beautiful specimen of this:

"Ut Rosa flos florum, sic est domus ista domorum,"

FOREIGNERS AND THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

The English language must appear fearfully and wonderfully made to a foreigner. One of them, looking at a picture of a number of vessels, said,

See, what a flock of ships."

He was told that a flock of ships was called a fleet, but that a fleet of sheep was a called a flock. And it was added, for his guidance in mastering the intricacies of our language, that a flock of girls is called a bevy, that a bevy of wolves is called a pack, This is a new version of the old and a pack of thieves is called a gang, and a gang of angels is called a host, and a host of porpoises is called a shoal, and a shoal of buffaloes is called a herd, and a herd of children is called rubbish is called a heap, and a heap of how do they go?" "Go where?" gregation, and a congregation of engi-stand the English language, sir?" neers is called a corps, and a corps of says the customer. "Not as you mix rairly rhymes with "step" or "month." robbers is called a band, and a band it and mingle it, I don't !" responded and of far-fetched constructions that Byron says that it is impossible to of locusts is called a swarm, and a the egg merchant. "What-is-the are put in circulation by laborers after the pun, which is worth nothing if it. Every little white some inquisitive a crowd of gentle folks is called the eggs?" "Ah, now you talk," says elite, and the elite of the city's thieves the dealer. "Sixteen cents per dozen and rascals are called the roughs, and is the price, sir !" They traded. But the miscellaneous crowd of city folks it appears that another customer, who, is called the community or the public, according as they are spoken of by the religious community or secular public. Now, again, the Hudson river is fast when the ice is immovable, and then the ice disappeared very fast, for it was loose. A clock is called fast when it is quicker than time; but a man is told to stand fast when he is desired to remain stationary. People fast when they have nothing to eat, and eat fast,

This he said beseechingly, but the lady was past propitation by this time, and rapidly moved toward the door. Taking a last harried look at his dictionary, the German flew after the lady, crying out in a voice of despair:

'Madame, since your husband, your most respected husband, have hopped de twig-'

This was his sheet anchor, and as this also 'came home,' of course the poor man was totally wrecked. It turned out that the dictionary he had used had put down the verb sterben (to die) with the following worshipful series of equivalents: 1. To kick the bucket. 2. To cut one's stick. 3. To go to kingdom come. 4. To hop the twig: to hop off the the perch into Davy's locker.

DAILY UNION VEDETTE.

Monday Morning, Pobruary 29, 1864.

No Vedette To-morrow.

No paper will be issued from this office tomorrow. In consequence of the demands of the public service upon our printers and those engaged in the office, for Muster and Review on the last day of each month, we find that it will be impossible for us to issue a paper on the first and last days of each month. Inasmuch as we omitted to mention this fact earlier, we have strained a point in order to issue to-day's paper, that our subscribers might be informed of the cause of non-issue to-

On the last day of each month everybody connected with the office must attend the regular muster for inspection and review or neglect the performance of a necessary military duty. This will prevent the issue of the Vedette on the last and first day of every month. Our subscribers, will therefore, please take notice of this, as we find it impossible to prepare for inspection as a soldier should prepare, and do the work necessary to issue a daily paper. Our next paper will be duly forthcoming on Wednesday morning next, and we hope thereafter to issue the Vedette regularly every day except Sunday, and the two other exceptions mentioned above.

CAMP DOUGLAS GYMNASTIC CLUB.—This Club gave one of the grandest entertainments at the Theater, last Saturday night, that has ever been witnessed by a Camp Douglas audience. The programme consisted of feats of strength and skill on the horizontal and parallel bars, trapez, cord volante, together with tumbling, etc., which were done in such admirable style as to elicit the approbation of a numerous and appreciative andience. This Club has but recently been organized. and when taken into consideration the short time they have had to prepare themselves for this performance, it is indeed surprising that they could arrive at such a degree of perfection in this business. This institution should be encouraged, as it is both a source of health and amusement, and conducive to the development of the physical man. The Club intend giving another performance as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made, when we hope to see a full house, as the performance is well worth the price of

The inimitable negro delineator, R. R. Taylor, who has made himself the favorite of Camp Douglas theater-goers, will take a benefit at the Douglas Theater, on next Thursday night. We anticipate a fine performance and a full house.

Rates of Foreign Postage on Printed Matter Sent from Post-Offices within the Uzited States

Mr. T. B. Stenhouse, Postmaster, G. S. L. City, has kindly furnished us the following regarding foreign rates of postage on printed matter, the publication of which will save us the trouble of answering the numerous ques-tions which heretofore have been put to us almost daily, and which we were unable to answer from the fact that the necessary information was not at hand :

To Great Britain and Ireland, newspapers 2 cents each, without regard to weight, which is the United States postage only; prepayment

To France, Algeria, or in French mail, or via. England to cities of Turkey. Syria and Egypt, newspapers 2 cents each; prepayment required.

To the German-Austrian Postal Union, in Prussian closed mail. newspapers 6 cents each;

prepayment required.

To Germany via. Bremen and Hamburg, newspapers 3 cents each; prepayment re-

To Belgium, in the United States and Belgium closed mail, newspapers not exceeding 3 ozs. 5 cents each; prepayment required. To Switzerland, by Prussian closed mail, 6 cents.

To Switzerland, by Bremen mail, 4 cents. To Switzerland, by French mail, 2 cents each ; to be prepaid. Newspapers published in the United States and sent to regular sub cribers in the British North American Provinces, are chargeable with the regular prepaid quarterly rates of United States postage; which postage must be collected at the office of mailing.

Such matter, if transient, is chargeable with

The Boise Express arrived at Box Elder on Saturday, after a long trip, bringing dates from Western Pannack to the 23d ult. We are indebted to the Agent, Mr. T. D. Brown. for an advance copy of the Boise News of the date mentioned. The Express messenger reports considerable difficulty with the Indians along the route. Before reaching Salmon Falls on the Snake River, the stock was stolen three times, but by extraordinary exertions of the expressman it was all recovered. While at the Falls all the express animals, and those belonging to the Ferry. were stolen from the corral by the Indians. Only part of these were recovered, but the rider pressed through as best he could.

We also learn that Mr. Barnard, who lives on the Malad. near Deep Creek, in the northern part of this Territory, sent out last Sunday twelve head of horses and mules to bring in some wagons laden with goods, which had been snow-bound. These also were stolen by he red skins. We have heard of no violence being offered by the Indians on the route. They seem to have contented themselves with indulging in their natural propensity of stealing stock. Emigrants traveling north will. therefore, have to keep an eye on their animals, lest the vagabond tribes steal them away. No danger is apprehended from the Indians, as they evince no disposition to attack white travelers, but they will steal when they get a chance. Ample protection will be afforded should any emergency require it, but such raids as those mentioned above are at all times to be expected in an Indian country. no matter how peaceful the savages may be, or how strong the treaties made with them. A little care on the part of travelers will obviate all trouble. The winter has been a severe one, and the Indians bave had a hard time to get through it.

In the Boise News we find few items of special interest to our citizens. A bloody murder was committed on the 19th January at a ball, the innocent victim being Joseph R. Seeley. A fight took place in the ball room between a desperado named Jack Holbrook, and a man named T. Northcutt. They commenced shooting in the door of the crowded room, where Seeley received his death wound and Wm. B. Paston a ball in the leg. the latter inflicting a severe though not dangerous wound. Holbrook is in custody, awaiting his trial for murder. The people are much incensed at this outrage and loud talk is heard about organizing a Vigilance Committee to rid the country of the vagabond deperadoes who use the pistol or knife on the slightest provocation, regardless of the lives of innocent passersby or onlookers. The Boise News reprobates the idea of a Committee, and takes a proper view of the question. So long as the courts do their duty, there is no excuse for such institutions as Vigilance Committees. The News says:

VIGILANCE COMMITTEE.-There has been some talk, not altogether idle or unmeaning. within the past few days with regard to the formation of a Vigilance Committee, but upon sober second thought we have no doubt the idea will be abandoned. It would certainly be premature at this time. The Court having jurisdiction in criminal cases will begin a session within two weeks, and as no prisoner has ever escaped from the officers of this county, it is fair to presume that none will be permitted to do so between this and the sitting of Court. As the law has been faithfully exe-cuted up to this time. let us hope that it will continue to be so, and not soil our hands even with the blood of criminals. When Court meets two weeks from Monday, they will be tried by a jury of impartial men summoned from the body of the county.

THE WEATHER.—Those who left Boise o winter below on account of the severity of the climate, will be astonished in looking over our table to see the range of the thermometer from the 15th to the 21st of January, never going below 15 above zero in Bannack, and running up as high as 34 degrees at 9 p.m. We have had but one cold week during the winter thus far—the mercury going down during that time as low as 19 degrees below zero, and even then there were no damp winds to chill the blood, and, there was little comto chill the blood, and there was little com-plaint of cold. We have had no wind or rain storms, and the occasional zepbyrs that reach us in these mountain fastnesses, are gentle as snow is fast melting away—the thermometer ranging from about 30 to 50 degrees at noon. Those who have remained in Boise, would regard it as a very great hardship to be com-pelled to endure the sand blasts of Dalles or Umatilla, or even the sage and sand locked haven of Walla Walla. Winter is now far enough advanced to enable us to say with confidence that, barring the inconvenience of having to wade through pretty deep snow, no pleasanter climate to live in during the winter can be found on the Continent of America, than Boise Basin. The absence of storms and steady winds, gives it a per centage over all open countries where these things prevail.— Boise News.

No skirmishing of any consequence took place. At half past II when our forces had reached the inmediate vicinity of the town of Tunnel Hill, and as soon as infantry in sofnicient numbers to support the cavalry ad arrived, a column of the latter advanced along the road in plain view of Tunnel Hill on which rebel canno were planted the day before, a rele battery to the right of Tunnel III immediately opened throwing a ne ber of shells with great accuracy our ranks, part of our artillery coning up, opened on the enemy with some effect, lessened somewhat by the apparent imperfection of the shells, very few of which exploded. Two pieces of the 19th Indiana battery were afterwards placed in position to the left of the road and materially as sisted in dislodging the rebel battery, the infantry now advanced taking the rebels on the right flank and boldly marched along the crest of Tunnel Hill completely turning the enemy's works, their left being also threatened by a portion of our forces they fled, and our whole line moving forward occupied without further contest the ridge of Tunnel Hill. old nurse of her mistress's twin children; "one looks so much like both, you can't tell t'other from which!"

The contradictions of pronunciation in the termination "ough" are amusingly displayed in the following lines:

While the old mare drinks at the trough." A report of a prize fight must be a very interesting thing for a foreigner to translate. A very simple report of a fight, in which some "game" individual mounted the ladder of fame from the area of the prize ring by a certain number of "rounds," tells that the combatants struck each other with the mawleys and bunches of fives upon the head, the nut, the cone, the conk, the canister, the noddle, the mug, the knowledge box; the nose, the sneezer, the snorer, the snuffer, the snuff tray, the nozzle, the mazzard; the eyes, the ogles, the optics, the peepers; the mouth, the kisser, the whistler, the orator-trap; drawing the blood, the claret, the ruby, the crimson, the homebrewed, the gravy; and in several instances knocked the unfortunate knocker off his pins, his pegs, his stumps and his foundation, to say nothing of boring, fibbing and sending him to grass. Who wants the belt?

So it must be interesting to a foreigner who relies on his dictionary, to hear the talk of "dead beats," "small potatoes few in a bill," "bully boys," "big things" and things that one "can't The initials O. K., which mean "Oll Korrect," are at least twenty

INGENIOUS TEE OF LANGUAGES.

Let us notice some of the ingenious things that can be done with the language. The repetition of the same class of rhymes is quite common, but the following epistle may be readable:

MARY MODERATION. Yours, Palindromes, or limes that read the same backward and forward, are frequent in Latin or Greek, but it is quite him." deficult to construct them in English The lawyer's motto, " Si nummi immunis," is a good specimen of a Lating loud enough to attract all the eyes one. The best in English is Adam's first observation to Eve, " Madam I'm Adam." The one by Taylor, the water but I can give you some corn bread, noet, "Lewd I'did live and evil did 1 an' here's some salt," an' here's some dwel," lacks completeness in two corn bread." points.

in the word maiden: "Ida, a maiden, a mean man named Ned Dean, and Media, a mad dame, made me mend a die and a dime, and mind a mine in a dim den in Maine."

The following queer sentence originated, like many other odd things, in one of our monthly magazines:

"Sator arepo tenet opera rotas." 1. This spells backward and forward all the same.

Then, taking all the first fetters 3. The daking With second letters of each word, spells the second word.

4. Then all the third, and so on through the fourth and fifth. 5. Then, commencing with the last letter of each word, spells the last.
6. Then the next to the last of each word, and so on through.

Here is the way a grammarian con-

"Hot, hotter, hottest, hottentot, hot entoter, hottentotest, hottentotissimo, hottentotissimus, hot as an oven, Lot as two evens, hot as four ovens, hot as seven ovens hot !".

A gentleman who could not pronounce the letter R was asked to read the following:

"Robert gave Richard a rap in the ribs For roasting the rabbit so rare,'

He evaded the difficulty in following ingenious manner:

"Boby cave Dickey a thump in the side,"
For cooking the bunny so little."

We will close by relating a marvel n the way of logic done by Granger. He was a remarkably ugly man, but contended that he was the handsom-est thing in the world He proved it hus: "The handsomest part of the world," said he, "is Europe; of Europe, France; of France, Paris; of Paris, he University; of the University, the College of ; in the College of the handsomest room is mine; in my room I am the handsomest thing; ergo, I am the handsomest thing in the world."

A PRIVATE HOTEL AT THE SOUTH .-We observe the following going the counds of the rebel press

Mike has made several important Southwest. He says he has just found out what "private hotel" is He has found several of them in his travels, and they are certainly very peculiar institutions. He says their bells and gongs make as much clatter as if there was really something on the table to call the public to, but when one gets there he sees nothing but empty plates. Presently the waiters will be seen dispensing different kinds of provenderpretty generally to the military gentlemen with the stars and bars on their collars, and when you ask them will see that the arms and accourrements in to give you "some o' that what that feller's got," the waiter will look at you as a faro-dealer does when he ly says:

"That's private, sir !" Then you look around to see what else might suit your taste, and you see another chap with eggs. You think, "Well, eggs are common enough dear knows."

"Give me spice potatoes then; I rammer. The barrel, when not in use, will suppose they're not private," I sand, be closed with a stopper. For exercise, each loud enough to attract all the eyes soldier should keep himself, provided with a around the table. ALMHRISTOLG

Here is a sentence of thirty-two black rascal," I said, aggravated, as words, which some ingenious child has indeed it should make anybody feel constructed with just the letters found who was paying eight dollars in day for board.

> "Well, massa, 'clare, massa, dat's private, too! Here's some salt !"

> Spying snother nigger, I motioned him to me, thinking I would slip a bribe into his fingers, and possibly get some of the private dishes. He came reluctantly, and, as I extended my hand with a promise in it, he stopped, and said in a low tone:

"I'se a2fileste servont, massa."

This capped the climax, and I determined to finish my meal of corn dodger and salt and take the next train for a change.
